Passage 1

One of homeopathy's best-kept secrets is its ability to prevent complications from surgery. Homeopathic remedies can help reduce anxiety prior to surgery and excess bleeding during surgery, and can accelerate post-surgical recovery. Also,

- 5 remedies can help the body break down and eliminate unsightly scars. Surgery represents both the astonishing sophistication and scientific advancements in health care while also demonstrating the inability of conventional medicine to provide alternatives that would prevent this action of last resort.

- 10 On one hand, some conditions such as birth deformities, structural problems, severe injuries, or life-threatening conditions are simply not treatable without surgery. At the same time, surgery is often performed unnecessarily. For example, it is used when the body, given a chance, could heal itself using natural therapies. Successful surgery does not mean that the person is "cured". Surgery may remove a tumor, a gallstone, or other diseased tissue or body parts but this removal doesn't
- 15 change the basic processes that created them in the first place.

-Tamara Der-Ohania

1. The author's main purpose for writing the passage is to
 - (A) introduce the advantages of an alternative therapy.
 - (B) warn the reader of the dangers of surgery.
 - (C) compare homeopathy with other natural remedies.
 - (D) describe several modern medical discoveries.
 - (E) explain the role of surgery in specific circumstances.

2. According to the passage, surgery
 - (A) must be performed as soon as possible.
 - (B) cannot get rid of the source of certain problems.
 - (C) is not effective with birth deformities.
 - (D) should not be replaced by homeopathic remedies.
 - (E) is very risky considering its high costs.

3. All of the following are mentioned as benefits of homeopathy EXCEPT:
 - (A) It can prevent scarring.
 - (B) It aids in recovering after surgery.
 - (C) It is relatively inexpensive.
 - (D) It can prevent problems arising from surgery.
 - (E) It reduces stress before surgery.

4. What does the author mean by "Surgery represents... action of last resort" (first paragraph)?
 - (A) Surgery is the most technologically advanced science in the world.
 - (B) As health care costs rise, people need to find other methods of healing.
 - (C) Patients should consider homeopathy in their post-surgery recoveries.
 - (D) Surgery is extremely risky and should not be used in all situations.
 - (E) Modern medicine has come a long way, but limitations still exist.

5. It can be inferred from the passage that
 - (A) homeopathy can help remove tumors and gallstones.
 - (B) the more risky the surgery the higher the cost.

- (C) life-threatening injuries are often exaggerated.
- (D) surgery is absolutely necessary in some situations.
- (E) the benefits of homeopathy are widely-known.

It's easy, nowadays, to blame others for bad things that happen to us. We complain that we don't have enough money because the government takes our taxes. We blame carbohydrates for our fat count. We blame society for our embarrassingly low educational scores.

5 Well, I disagree. I say we could save money by skipping McDonald's and buying the non-name-brand food items at the grocery. I say we're fat because we don't exercise. I say we're stupid because we watch too much TV and never read anything more difficult than sixth grade reading material.

10 I say that it's in our own hands if we are operating at less than our potential.

So, sometime, when you're at a loss for something to do, change your life for the better. Crack open the dictionary at a random page and see what's inside.

15 Seriously.

Chances are you'll find something interesting you didn't know before. Reading the dictionary is like reading a thousand mininovels, for each word has a story.

20 For example, we often hear someone referred to as a "spinster." Most of us know that we use this term to describe an old, unmarried woman, but few of us know that the name originally had more meaning. The reason that "spinster" came to refer to all old, unmarried women is because in earlier times old, unmarried women had to spin to earn their livings; old, unmarried women who could not spin nevertheless got 25 lumped in with the rest. Consider, also, the word "whirling dervish." We know that this word is used to refer to dancers or tornadoes. Originally, however, the word referred to Muslim priests who wandered the land as beggars; In addition to whirling dervishes, there existed also howling and dancing dervishes, too.

30 So, take five minutes and read the dictionary next time you're bored. Seriously.

Turning and turning in the widening gyre

The falcon cannot hear the falconer,

Over two decades ago, scientists in the Agricultural Research Service Vegetable Crops Research Unit at Madison, Wisconsin, began a quest to breed carrots packed with beta-carotene –

5 an orange pigment used by the body to create vitamin A. Thanks largely to their work, today's carrots provide consumers with 75 percent more beta-carotene than those available 25 years ago.

The researchers, led by plant geneticist
10 Philipp Simon, haven't limited themselves to the color orange. They've selectively bred a rainbow of carrots -purple, red, yellow, even white. Scientists are learning that these plant pigments perform a range of protective duties in the 15 human body.

Red carrots derive their color mainly from lycopene, a type of carotene believed to guard against heart disease and some cancers. Yellow carrots accumulate xanthophylls, pigments similar 20 to beta-carotene that support good eye health. Purple carrots possess an entirely different class of pigments—anthocyanins—which act as powerful antioxidants.

While colored carrots are unusual, they're not
25 exactly new. "Purple and yellow carrots were eaten more than 1,000 years ago in Afghanistan and 700 years ago in western Europe," says Simon. "But the carrot-breeding process has gone on intensively for just 50 years."

30 In nature, different strains of carrots contain varying types and amounts of carotenoids—the pigments responsible for orange, yellow, and red colors. To assist seed companies and growers who wish to produce nutrient-rich carrots, Simon and his lab are working to map all the genes that play a part in synthesizing carotenoids in major carrot lines. Simon now knows of 20 genes that are involved. But determining a particular gene's role in generating carotenoids is not that straightforward.

Aside from enhancing the nutritional value of carrots—as well as onions, garlic, and cucumbers—researchers at Simon's laboratory also work to improve the vegetable's culinary quality and appeal.

With their compelling health benefits and a thumbs-up from taste testers, Simon's colorful carrots will be a great addition to supermarket produce aisles once consumers create a demand for them.

Manatees and dugongs, also known as sea cows, belong to the scientific order Sirenia.

In ancient mythology, “siren” was a term used for monsters or sea nymphs who lured sailors and

5 their ships to treacherous rocks and shipwreck with mesmerizing songs. Throughout history, sailors sometimes thought they were seeing mermaids when they were probably seeing manatees or dugongs. With a little imagination,

10 manatees have an uncanny resemblance to human form that could only increase after long months at sea. In fact, manatees and dugongs may have helped to perpetuate the myth of mermaids.

Like the mythological creatures for which they

15 were named, all sirenians living on earth today are vulnerable to extinction

Manatees and dugongs are the only completely aquatic mammals that are herbivores Unlike the other marine mammals (dolphins, whales, seals, 20 sea lions, sea otters, walruses, and polar bears) sirenians eat only seagrasses and other aquatic vegetation. Unlike other marine mammals, sirenians have an extremely low metabolism and zero tolerance for cold water. Like dolphins and 25 whales, manatees and dugongs are totally aquatic mammals that never leave the water—not even to give birth. The combination of these factors means that sirenians are restricted to warm shallow coastal waters, estuaries, and rivers, with 30 healthy ecosystems that support large amounts of seagrass and other vegetation.

The average adult manatee is about three meters (9.8 feet) long and weighs between 362-544 kilograms (800-1,200 pounds). It is

35 estimated that a manatee can eat about 10-15% of its body weight in vegetation daily. So, for example, a 453-kilogram (1,000-pound) manatee

would probably eat between 45-68 kilograms

(100-150 pounds) of sea grass and water hyacinths

40 a day!

 - (E) mysterious
24. The passage supports which of the following conclusions?
- (A) Manatees are like other marine mammals in their diet.
 - (B) All sirenians are endangered.
 - (C) Because of their low metabolism, manatees tolerate cold water well.
 - (D) Mermaids were classified as sirenians.
 - (E) Manatees leave the water only to give birth.
25. The author develops paragraph 2 by presenting
- (A) two sides of an issue .
 - (B) a thesis followed by specific examples
 - (C) a description of similarities and differences
 - (D) an opinion and reasons why it is held

- (A) I only
 - (B) II only

 - (D) I and II only

Love is like the wild rose-briar;
Friendship like the holly-tree.
The holly is dark when the rose-briar blooms,
But which will bloom most constantly?

5 The wild rose-briar is sweet in spring,
Its summer blossoms scent the air;
Yet wait till winter comes again,

When you say that a book was “meant to be read,” you mean, for one thing, that it was not meant to be studied. You do not study a good story, or a haunting poem, or a battle song, or a love ballad, or any moving narrative, whether it be out of history or out of fiction. You do not have to study these things; they reveal themselves to you. They remain with you, and will

5 not be forgotten. They cling like personal experience, and become the mind’s close friends. You devour a book “meant to be read,” not because you are anxious to be nourished, but because it contains such stuff as makes the mind hungry. Nor do you read it to kill time, but rather to lengthen time, to live more abundantly while it lasts, adding another’s life and thoughts to your own.

32. Which of these would the author most likely think was NOT “meant to be read”?

- (A) a poem about memories of a long-ago time
- (B) a story about an exciting adventure

- (B) to live richly, taking in an array of thoughts and experiences
- (C) to live dangerously, risking your life for cheap thrills

35. The tone of this passage is

Henri Marie Raymond de Toulouse-Lautrec-Monfa—or more simply, Henri de Toulouse-Lautrec—was a French painter and illustrator whose immersion in the colorful life of Paris in the last decades of the 19th century yielded a collection of exciting, elegant and provocative images. Henri owed his long name to his aristocratic heritage, to which he also

- 5 owed his serious life-long health problems. Henri's parents, the Count and Countess of Toulouse and Lautrec, were first cousins, and Henri suffered from health conditions often found in the offspring of close relatives. At the age of 13, Henri fractured his right thigh bone, and at 14, his left. The breaks did not heal properly, and his legs ceased to grow, so that as an adult he was just over five feet tall, having developed an adult-sized torso while retaining his
- 10 child-sized legs. Physically unable to participate in many activities typically enjoyed by men of his age, Henri immersed himself in art.

Under the tutelage of Bonnat and later Fernand Cormon, Henri developed his vivid, characterful painting style and his taste for the Paris social scene that was so often his subject. He was masterly at capturing crowd scenes in which the figures are highly individualized.

- 15 Along with Cézanne, Van Gogh, and Gauguin, Henri Toulouse-Lautrec is now known as one of the greatest painters of the period.

- (B) were successful due to his family's influence
- (C) cured him of his disabilities
- (D) allowed him to keep living the life of an aristocrat
- (E) surpassed his family's low expectations

- (A) forced him to become an artist because there were no other careers open to him
- (B) prevented him from enjoying certain experiences with his peers
